Valentina Kozlova International Ballet Competition

CONTEMPORARY CHOREOGRAPHERS | DANCERS COMPETITION

THE CITY OF NEW YORK OFFICE OF THE MAYOR NEW YORK, NY 10007

March 26, 2018

Dear Friends:

I am delighted to welcome everyone as the Valentina Kozlova Dance Foundation hosts its International Ballet Competition and Contemporary Dance and Choreography Competition.

New York has no shortage of brilliant dancers and choreographers whose innovative works and inspiring performances have enriched our city's cultural landscape. We are proud of our reputation as diverse capital of the arts, and that is why we are grateful for the role that Valentina Kozlova Dance Foundation plays in supporting aspiring dancers to advance their skills and build professional careers. In addition to providing dance education and community outreach programs in the five boroughs and beyond, the Foundation also hosts this annual competition that gives artists from around the world the opportunity to showcase their talent for enthusiastic audiences and earn scholarships and contracts from top academies and renowned companies. I applaud VKDF and everyone associated with this outstanding event that adds to the vibrancy of our thriving dance community and unites people of all backgrounds in shared appreciation of such a graceful and athletic art form.

On behalf of all New Yorkers, congratulations to all of this years' gifted competitors. Please accept my best wishes for an exciting week and continued success.

Sincerely,

Bill de Blasio

Mayor

Valentina Kozlova International Ballet Competition

An initiative of Valentina Kozlova Dance Foundation, Inc., a 501(c)(3) Not for Profit Organization

March 2018

Dear Friends and Participants,

Welcome to the eighth edition of the Valentina Kozlova International Ballet Competition and Contemporary Dance & Choreography Competition Finals. It is my pleasure to welcome you to New York and present talented dancers hailing from many countries around the world, united in their passion for the art of dance. Over the next five days the stage will be graced with Dance's rising talent, as participants strive for perfection in their interpretations of the classical and contemporary repertory.

From its inception, VKIBC's mission has been to promote the exchange of culture and knowledge through a celebration of dance. The competition encourages and works to assist dancers in the pursuit of their dreams. This competition is dedicated to Preserving the Past, Discovering the Future.

For all involved, it is my hope that VKIBC will continue to be not simply about competing and winning, but rather a vehicle for international camaraderie, education, artistic growth and the discovery of new talent. VKIBC is dedicated to creating a positive and encouraging atmosphere, allowing dancers the opportunity to further develop their technique, artistry and understanding of the art. I hope that through this commitment, the competition will inspire all participants and enrich the global dance community.

I wish to thank the dancers and choreographers for bringing their talent and determination to New York. To the teachers and coaches, I thank you for sharing your knowledge with the next generation of artists. And to the parents, audience and volunteers thank you for your support. This competition is for the dancers: let us celebrate your talents and passion, and look towards your bright futures.

We usually celebrate young talents of today worldwide, however the most important thing to remember is the generation before us. It is those individuals that make us shine today!

This year we have the honor to be supported by two major dance organizations, The Serge Lifar Foundation and the Rudolf Nureyev Foundation. Both have recognized VKIBC's work toward Preserving the Past, Discovering the Future of dance. In addition, this year we are celebrating Rudolf Nureyev, the genius of the dance world. Our Gala Performance on March 30th will be dedicated to Rudolf.

With all my love,

Valentina Kozlova

Rudi, my friend,

One day you took me under your wing and in your luggage to cross the world. That was the beginning of our adventure; after that, we never left each other.

Since you went away, there's been a big void in my life and I can't stop thinking of you.

For twenty years, our friendship and complicity, both professional and private, have allowed me to know you better.

To generations of dancers you were, you still are, the God of Dance. You have pulled this Art up to its highest peaks.

You projected that nobility only few possess. Dance was your Life, and your Life was Dance.

You poured all your energy into it. You had that spirit of discovery, an endless curiosity and audacity that never left you.

At 23 you made a hard choice: leaving your country, no way back possible. You chose Freedom! Freedom to dance all over the world, Freedom to enrich yourself with all these different cultures.

Rightful heir to Petipa's traditions, you knew how to revisit his works. With that beauty, that nobility of movement you created in simple gestures, you have influenced several generations of dancers.

You understood the importance of researching contemporary dance, from Merce Cunningham and Martha Graham to Jose Limon, Paul Taylor and many more.

And you also wanted to interpret works from Maurice Béjart, Roland Petit, John Neumeier, George Balanchine, Jerome Robbins, and the list goes on.

You excelled in discovering young choreographers: William Forsythe, Jiri Kilian, Rudi van Dantzig, David Parsons, Michael Clark, artists who, in turn, became celebrated in the dance world.

You were able to train, and help, many male and female dancers who all ended up having great international careers.

What can be said about you, the immensely talented dancer, about your majestic interpretations, this elegance and animal grace that define you so well. The incredible work capacity, the out of this world technique that left us with an image no one could ever replace, almost embarrassing us: after you, one needed a certain courage to carry on all these missions.

You had that particular magnetism that drew people, and your friends, towards you. At other times your child side took over, and most times we'd forgive you for anything you could do!

You loved life, and partying, but above all there was Dance!

You were always nostalgic of your country, even if you spoke little about it. You did not like the system, but you loved YOUR RUSSIA!

The world of Dance and the Art owes it to you to broaden its frontiers and move beyond the Classical / Modern separation.

Your Rudolf Noureyev Foundation carries on your vision of Dance in all its aspects; it helps and finances young talents studying all over the world. Your Foundation also launched a web site dedicated to providing medical attention to dancers.

The legacy you leave behind is behemoth, exceptional for the generations to come.

As we gather today in New York with these young and vibrant dancers from all over the world, I know there wouldn't have been a better way for me, for all of us, to pay tribute.

You'll always be close to my heart.

Your friend forever,

Charles Jude

FOUNDER AN ARTISTIC DIRECTO

VALENTINA KOZLOVA is known to be a major innovator in the international ballet world. Her passion for dance, and for the choreographers and dancers who create and perform, have led her to find new outlets for their talents.

Born in Moscow, Ms. Kozlova was trained at the Bolshoi Ballet School. She was invited to join the Bolshoi Ballet Company in 1973 and was promoted to Principal Dancer in 1975. She danced all of the major classical roles with the company. In 1979, she defected to the United States during a tour with the Bolshoi. She had already performed, while still a student, in Western Europe and the U.S. and was intrigued by what she saw. Her quest for artistic freedom and growth led her to seek a career that would offer new roles by western contemporary choreographers as well as the classics. She was immediately in demand internationally as a guest artist. She made her Broadway debut in the leading role for the revival of "On Your Toes", learning the part from its original creators, George Abbott and George Balanchine. Her performance led Balanchine to invite her to become a Principal Dancer with New York City Ballet in 1983. She accepted and performed with the company until 1995, dancing the classics along with the leading roles of works by Balanchine, Jerome Robbins, Peter Martins, Eliot Feld and Richard Tanner.

The list of Ms. Kozlova's guest appearances with major international ballet companies and festivals is impressive, including Spoleto, La Scala, Florence Opera House, English National Ballet, Paris Opera, Basel Ballet, Australia, Ballet de Santiago (Chile), Teatro Colon (Buenos Aires) and Hong Kong. She also appeared in ballet galas in Africa, Greece, England, India, Italy, Portugal, Spain, Don des Etoiles in Canada, Taiwan, Korea and Japan. Her performances on video include the Pavlova Special (CBS), La Fille Mal Gardée (Philips Video, Germany), and Spartacus (VEAR Productions, Argentina).

Valentina Kozlova has appeared on television, including talk shows and entertainment programs around the world. Following Glasnost, she made a triumphant return to Moscow in 1991, with NBC News covering her performances at the Kremlin Palace. She returned to Moscow in 1992 to perform the premiere of a new solo, "Blue Angel", created for her by choreographer Margo Sappington. She and Ms. Sappington established Ballet: The Daring Project, a ballet company dedicated to creating new works. Ms. Kozlova also danced in "A Christmas Carol" with Tony Randall and Ben Vereen.

In 2003, Ms. Kozlova opened her dance conservatory, Valentina Kozlova Dance Conservatory of New York (VKDCNY), a professional school that provides students who have the talent, determination and ability to receive the quality of training needed to pursue professional careers. She founded Dance Conservatory Performance Project, a venue to provide public performances for her dancers.

In 2009, Ms. Kozlova presented One Magical Performance: The Legacy Gala at The Joyce Theater in New York in celebration of the thirtieth anniversary of her defection. Principal dancers from New York City Ballet and American Ballet Theater were guest artists, performing at the spectacular event along with students from her school.

In 2011, Valentina Kozlova presented the debut of another new organization: the highly acclaimed Boston International Ballet Competition (BIBC). The competition was repeated in Boston in 2012. In 2013, it became the Valentina Kozlova International Ballet Competition (VKIBC), which had its first presentation in New York. Ninety-six dancers from twenty-one countries joined U.S. dancers to compete for prizes that included not only monetary awards but international school scholarships, company contracts and invitations to perform at international gala performances.

While acting as judge for the 2013 ballet competition in Seoul, South Korea, Ms. Kozlova proposed an association between her competition and those of South Korea, South Africa and China. The association was formed to improve the artistic value for competing dancers. Her colleagues from those countries applauded the suggestion and the first meeting of the association was held immediately.

April of 2014 marked the debut of a never before seen event: a special international contemporary competition for contemporary choreographers and dancers, which was held at New York's Symphony Space Theater. In 2015 VKIBC held three semi finals: European, in Brussels, Belgium, South American in Misiones, Argentina and in New Orleans.

In March of 2016 Ms. Kozlova launched Valentina Kozlova Dance Foundation, Inc. (VKDF), a 501(c)(3) non for profit organization meant to support talented dancers and choreographers in their achievements. Later that year, VKIBC finals were held at Symphony Space Theater. 2017 was a special year: VKIBC had the honor of presenting its European semi final at the mythical Hermitage Theater in Saint Petersburg, Russia.

2018 marks the eighth consecutive edition of VKIBC. A very special year: we are honored to get support from the Rudolf Nureyev Foundation and the Serge Lifar Foundation. Also, when Preserving the Past meets Discovering the Future, we'll have the Senior Division dancing pieces choreographed by Serge Lifar.

NINA BUISSON An

internationally acclaimed Contemporary Dance Master Teacher, award-winning choreographer and dance iconoclast, distinguished for coining cutting edge European contemporary dance idiom. For more than fifteen years Nina has enriched the avant-garde dance industry with her unconventional contemporary vocabulary – educating, choreographing and inspiring numerous students and performance artists across the globe. Her expressionistic Tanz-Theater tapestries weave a universe of boundless freedom, interdependence and inner peace. Nina is an "excellence" scholar from the PRINCESS GRACE Academy of Classical dance and has obtained her musical training from the PRINCE RAINIER III Music Academy in Monaco. She holds a professional teaching diploma in ballet and modern dance from the Cultural Ministry of France, Aix en Provence.

Nina Buisson has garnered critical plaudits and top prizes for her solo performances at several International dance competitions in France, Italy and Germany. She is the Elan Award recipient of the "Spirit Award for Choreographic Excellence".

Nina Buisson's singular choreography has been presented at the renowned New York City venues: "The Best of" at Danny Kay Play House at Hunter College 2004, The Elan Awards at the Fashion Institute of Technology, The Juilliard Senior Graduation Showcase 2005, Steps Choreography Performance Showcase 2006, Material Raw 13 "The Evolving Art Theater" 2006, Jennifer Muller's the Hatch 2008, The International Dance Festival at the Duke Theater 2009, The Avant-Garde Festival at Judson Memorial Church in 2010, The 10th Annual Asian Pacific American Heritage Festival 2011, La Mamma Move Dance Festival Motion Makers 2012, The Motion Capture Lab at the Steinhardt school of education New York University 2013, The Lab Tanz-Theater for Actors 2014. Most recently, Nina Buisson Contemporary Move performed the work "Entre Deux Mondes" at the Joyce Soho Theater.

"I like to paint...curves of light and shadow. Like a whirling spiral I carve raw energy in enchanting patterns. The dancing body is like a subtle brush that paints soulscapes of boundless freedom. Like poetry in motion, a painting without a frame, a gush of feelings floating in the air... I breathe the magic of moving bodies, seeding energy in space. Whether the magic remains after the piece is finished – doesn't matter. I soar up to my vastness – Unleashed and free..."

Nina Buisson choreographed "Unleashed", the compulsory Contemporary solo for female dancers in the Senior Division, VKIBC 2018.

ILYA ZHIVOI is a Russian dancer and choreographer.

He graduated from the Vaganova Russian Ballet Academy in 2008 (Gennady Selyutsky's class) and was thereafter accepted into the corps of the Mariinsky Theater.

Mr. Zhivoi has worked with some of the most talented choreographers of our time, including Forsythe, Preljocaj, van Manen, Lightfoot and Leon, Rodin and Ratmansky.

Ilya Zhivoi was involved in two Vishneva artistic projects: "Diana Vishneva, Beauty in motion" and "Diana Vishneva, Dialogues."

He is a Permanent participant in the "Creative Workshop for Young Choreographers" in Mariinsky Theater, for which he staged four ballets.

In 2016 Ilya Zhivoi presented the ballet "SeasonS" to the music of Vivaldi-Richter at Vladivostok's First International Far Eastern Festival "Mariinsky."

in 2017, commissioned by the Mariinsky Theater, he staged a repertoire two-act ballet "The Times of the Year."

He is a Laureate of the "Hope of Russia" Prize and a Participant in Valery Gergiev's educational program (master classes of modern choreography).

Ilya Zhivoi choreographed "An Awesome Wave", the compulsory Contemporary solo for male dancers in the Senior Division, VKIBC 2018.
